Thai Luxury

For those seeking a short holiday from Singapore, the new Conrad Koh Samui can be considered for a relaxing summer getaway. Set in Thailand's paradise island of Koh Samui, the luxury resort villa brings you world class dining and its signature spa amidst spectacular sunset views of their lush Anghong National Park and Five Islands. Featuring a contemporary Thai-style décor of tropical hardwood floors, Thai silk furnishings and ornamentations of local artworks and unique artefacts, the villa offers an authentic Thai experience, but with a modern twist.

100 YEARS LATER

To commemorate artist Liu Kang's centennial year of birth, the National Art Gallery is holding an exhibition to feature all of the works donated to the museum by the artist. One of Singapore's most important and influential artists of his generation, Liu Kang was also a guiding figure in the development of the Republic's art scene. The exhibition will showcase close to 100 artworks of Liu Kang's Balinese-themed figurative paintings. The exhibition is held from 29 July to 16 October 2011 at the Singapore Art Museum.

Sarwadee-KHA!

Previously located at HortPark, award-winning Thai restaurant Kha, has relocated to Martin No. 38. The new restaurant is dark, sensual and mysterious. Designed by Melbourne-based interior designer Hecker Guthrie, it features touches of antique bronze inspired by traditional Thai houses. Patrons will enjoy authentic Thai cuisine prepared by their Thai chefs, made even better by their attractive presentation. Along with the exceptional cuisine, Kha also offers an excellent wine list, making it suitable for business lunches or even special romantic occasions.

FLY ME TO THE MOON

For this year's Mid-Autumn Festival, TWG Tea has just launched eight new signature gourmet mooncakes, all freshly made and infused with their desirable tea blends. One of the finest luxury tea brands in Singapore, TWG Tea's evocative line of mooncake collection offers you the best of both worlds, with four types of traditional and snowskin mooncake varieties respectively. Daring gourmets with tastebuds for durians are sure to love the aromatic Love Me mooncake, a durian flavoured heart encased by a green crust filled with smooth lotus and pandan paste. More enticing flavours are available at the TWG Tea salon and boutique.
